

The geographical location of the Serranía and Sierras makes it one of Europe's best areas for the concentration of raptors. The importance of the area is recognized for the habitat it provides for so many breeding bird species. Whatever the time of year, the Serranía de Ronda and the Sierra de Grazalema is a must for any interested in birds and wildlife in general.

Photo hide Algaba

View through spy-glass window

The "Photo Hide" is located in Finca Algaba about 4 km from Ronda. The hide is excellent for a great variety of woodland species, which can be photographed at close quarters. Some of the bird species you may expect, depending on the season, are: Booted Eagle, Buzzard, Green and Great Spotted Woodpecker, Wryneck, Nightingale, Redstart, warblers such as Sardinian, Bonelli's, Subalpine, Melodious, Chiffchaff, Blackcap. Finches, Jay, Bee-eaters, Wood Pigeon, Tits, Dunnock, Nuthatch, Short-toed Treecreeper etc.

Photo hide Sierra de las Nieves

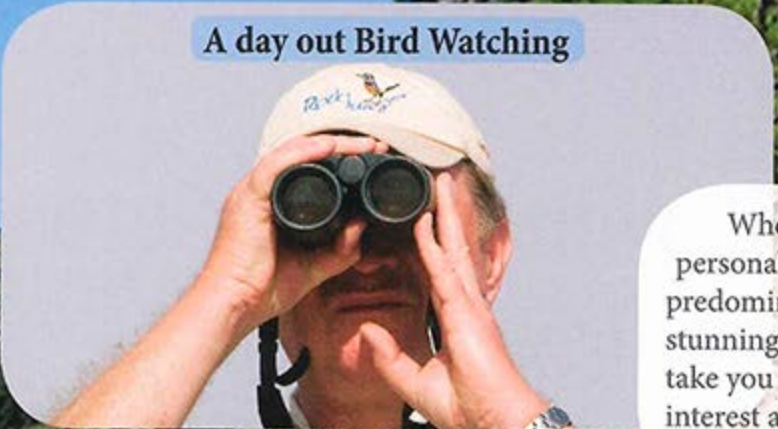

View through spy-glass window

This "Photo Hide" is located near the top of Sierra de las Nieves. The main attraction is to photograph Raptors such as Griffon Vulture (whole year), Black Vulture and Egyptian Vulture (during migration periods) and other Raptors living in the mountains such as Golden and Bonelli's Eagle. Bait will be provided to attract these raptors.

There are also several highland species such as Mistle Thrush, Brambling, Rock Sparrow, Rock Bunting, Chaffinch and Crossbill etc.

A day out Bird Watching

Whether you enjoy spectacular scenery or fauna and flora, then this personally guided birdwatching tour is for you! With mountains and hills predominately of limestone, the bio-diversity of the Serranía and Sierras is stunning. From rocky outcrops, mountaintop and valleys, the birding tour will take you through some of the most breathtaking scenery in Spain. Birds of interest are virtually guaranteed, though of course time of year and the weather, will dictate the number and type of bird species you will see.